RISK AND VULNERABILITY INTELLIGENCE

BUSINESS VULNERABILITY INTELLIGENCE

Many companies are unaware of potential risks and vulnerabilities associated with conducting business in regions with high threat levels. Understanding the physical and business risks that you face is critical in preparing for and mitigating loss. The Steele Foundation assessment teams leverage on-the-ground intelligence and experience to guide your organization to safety. Our assessments identify risk and potential vulnerabilities that your company may face with personnel living, conducting business, and/or traveling to a particular region. We are able to assess your core business functions to determine your vulnerabilities, then present realistic and cost effective solutions that will minimize your exposure.

The Steele Foundation's function assessment is a reference quality deliverable that provides a concise review and evaluation of the physical security, information security personnel security, and policies and procedures currently implemented by your security operations as well as providing a map and plan for future operations.

RISK INTELLIGENCE

The Steele Foundation's Risk Intelligence services provide timely travel security information, risk management and security consulting services to clients all over the world. Drawing on experience from the both the public and private sectors, Steele personnel have been involved in scores of emergency response missions throughout the world, including several of the largest privately organized evacuations in modern history. The Steele Foundation has been very successful in supporting clients in time of crisis, but our mission is to provide the appropriate intelligence and information resources to help mitigate risk before it happens.

Our analysts are among the most experienced information providers in the world and aggregate information daily for our clients, who access the services through an on-line web application. The online security and medical resources provide members with ongoing access to the best city, region, country, and travel security information available 24-hours a day, 7 days a week.
